CAMERON'S NEW BAND.

The City Is to Have One of the Largest and Best Organizations of the Kind.

The membership of the new band, the organization of which began in this city a few weeks ago, is rapidly increasing, and is already within three of the thirty-six, the number required. It is expected that the number will reach forty. The organization is rather an unusual one, in that the members have in view their own pertonal benefit and enjoyment rather than the desire or expectation of financial profit. A series of concerts, however, is contemplated, and the public will in this way have an opporunity both of hearing the band and of conributing in a small way to the enterprise. One nerchant has already offered to contribute $50 to help pay for the uniforms of the band. The organization will be known as Cameron's Military Band, the manager and director being Cameron, the cornet player and leader. It comprises some of the best professionals in the city and all the best smateurs. The officers are: President, George E. M. ls; vice-president, Gustave Becker; secretary, Perry Ingaile, and treasurer, Wm. Carlin. Almost every instrument employed by the best bands in the country is already represented -such as the oboe, bassoon, piccolo, flute, six plarionets, eight cornets, seven altos, four slide trombones, two baritones, one B flat base, one F tuba, two E flat tubas, one double B flat tuba; base, snare drum and cymbals. The band will to one of the largest in the West.

FROM THE RIVER AND CANAL.

A Charge that the Water Company Gets Part of a Supply from Those Streams.

The charge made in the Council, Tuesday night, by Councilman Darnell that the Indianapolis Water Company was violating its coutract with the city by receiving its supply of water from the river and canal instead of from the reservoir, as required by the contract, has caused considerable talk and will be the means of bringing about a thorough investigation. Nearly two months ago, in accordance with a resolution, a committee was appointed to ascertain whether or not the company was violating its contract, and Councilman Darnell was made its chairman. An investigation was quietly conducted until the committee believed it had sufficient evidence on which to base its report. The facts gathered were ready for submission along with the recommendation that the water company be not paid, because it had not fulfilled the provisions of its agreement, but, as several councilmen objected to any presentation of that kind until the water company could make a defense, the details of the investigation were not made public. The members of the committee say their examination of the matter was very thorough, and they intimate that when their report in full is given publicity a good many people will be sur-prised. When the investigation was begun a motary public was secured, and every statement was given under oath. Several of the employes of the company were examined, and their statements, it is said, are the most damaging. It is in evidence, so says a committeeman, that the company during a portion of the year gets water out of the river and the canal, and that it is obliged to do it in order to supply the city. Affidavit is made that while the company was taking water from the canal, and selling it for drinking purposes all over the city, the body of a person that had been dead for several days was taken from the place near where the supply was coming. The company of course denies all these charges, and says it is ready to prove their falsity. The majority of the councilmen were of the opinion that if the company was furnishing unwholesome water, as charged, it was the duty of the city Board of Health to make the in vestigation, and the entire matter was therefore referred to the Board of Health. The board will make a searching investigation. A special meeting will be called in a few days to take preliminary steps in the inquiry. It is the purpose to give both the Council committee which makes the charge and the company a fair hearing. Yesterday the water company put in possession of the board, under seal, part of the papers it will submit, and the Council committee will turn over the affidavits it has secured to-day or

AN ABOMINABLE POSTAL SERVICE.

It Is Driving a Citizen to Insanity Through Its Repetition of Blunders.

Dr. Frank Ferguson, editor of the Indiana Medical Journal, came out of the federal building yesterday with his temper badly ruffled. He said to a friend who was passing the building at the time: "The postal service, as at present administered, will either drive me to the Hospital for the Insane or send me to the penitentiary." "What's the trouble, Doctorl" asked a Journal reporter to whom the remark was also made. "I'll tell you," quoth he. "On last Saturday I mailed the Indiana Medical Journal, as second class matter, and paid the postage. On Tuesday two Journals were returned to me as misdirected. I made the necessary correction in the address and returned them to the Postoffice by the carrier. On Wednesday morning the Journals were brought back to me. I asked why they were returned, and the carrier answered because there were no stamps on them. I then took time to instruct the carrier in postal law, showing him that second class matter mailed by the publisher did not require stamps. This morning those Journals were again brought back to me. I have just taken them to the postoffice and started them again." "Do you think the papers will reach their des-

"No; but that is not the only cause of complaint. Yesterday, in my other mail, a letter was delivered to me, which I opened without looking at the address upon the envelope. I found it to be a letter from the Pension Depart ment, stating that a pension had been allowed and that a certificate of pension would be found inclosed. Looking at the envelope, I discovered it was not for me, but for a Mrs. Ann V. Ferguson. The certificate which was said to be inclosed was not in the letter. You can readily closed was not in the letter. You can readily see how a man could get into trouble by a mistake of that kind. I took the letter to the lady and made satisfactory explanations. Suppose the letter had said there was money contained within, and there was no money—say it had been purloined by a dishonest postal clerk—what explanation could we make to satisfactorily establish his innocence? So you see how I stand, midway between the mad-house and the parimidway between the mad-house and the penitentiary."

MORE STREET RAILWAYS.

The North-Side Routes the McNeal Electric Car Company Proposes to Take.

The street-railway situation is still somewhat embarrassing to the guardians of the city. Although a resolution passed by the Council Tuesday night requiring it to cease operations on the streets was accepted by that company, work was resumed yesterday on some of the Southside lines. But little was done, however, and it is understood that the company will stand by its agreement not to construct any more lines until the case decided by Judge Taylor is passed upon by the Supreme Court. The passage of the McNeal ordinance by the Council has tended to complicate the situation. In case the ordinance passes the Board of Aldermen, the company will, its agents say, begin work immediately. The ordinance the Council passed provides for an electric line on Georgia street, between Tennessee and Pennsylvania, and also on Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware streets. On the latter the line is to go to North, thence to East, then to St. Clair, and out that street to Park avenue, and then north to the city limits. A second line is to run from Georgia street north on Tennessee to North street, thence west to Fayette street, north on Fayette to First, west on First to West, and then north to Twelfth street. The third line proposed runs north along Meridian street from Louisana, around the west side of the Circle, and thence to Ohio street. It will continue east on that street to Delaware. These main lines will have a good many branches penetrating nearly all parts of the city north of Washington street. The ordi-nance will be considered by the Board of Aldermen next Monday night.

Circumstances That Lead Some to Think An Aged Woman was Murdered.

Mrs. Kate Ishman, an aged woman, who lived alone in a little cottage near the C., I., St. L. & C. tracks, near Eighth street, was found dead in her house yesterday morning. She had not been seen for several days by her neighbors, and one of them, Mrs. Pulley, a colored woman, went to the house to see if she was sick. When the door was opened a nauseating stench issued from the room, and upon entering Mrs. Ishman was found dead and decomposed. The bed clothes were stained with blood, and it was thought the woman had been killed. The remains were taken is charge by undertaker Kregelo, who had to bury them immediately on account of their condition. The woman had evidently been dead several days. Coroner Wagner will begin an investigation of the case to-day. The neighbors say that Mrs. Ishman had frequently told them that she had money, which she kept in a box, and they are inclined to believe the woman was murdered. There is little foundation for this theory, as Mrs. Ishman was sixty-five years of age and could not have resisted thieves. The dead woman has no relatives here so far as known. She always went by the name of "Aunt Katie," and she followed the vocation of peddling a bluing which she manufactured herself. Her husband, who died in the same house several years ago, was Fred Ishman, a Spanish gypsy.

Professor Grant, who has charge of the canvass for subscriptions to pay the current expenses of the association, reports encouraging success considering the number of people who are out of the city at the present time. The regular monthly meeting of the association occurs on Monday evening, and several matters of more than ordinary interest are to be considered. The committee on entertainment has been busily at work for some weeks and announces that the course for next winter will be a first-class one in every respect.

THE BETHANY ASSEMBLY.

Lecture on America's Influence, and an Address on the Duty of Church Members.

At the Bethany Assembly, yesterday, the lecture was delivered by Elder C. L. Loos, of Lexington, Ky., on "The Influence of the New World on the Old." He said that from the day this Republic entered on its great career there began to go from it a constantly increasing strong effect on the nations of Europe. Freedom and the sun never set; but the government, the suborned press, the schools and other machineries of the old world indoctrinate the masses with monarchical views and impress the people with ideas in opposition to freedom. Selfpovernment is a thing so unknown in Europe that the people have no word that will properly translate it, so they have to use the English word when referring to a government by the people. Yet the French have been ifor a century nearly somewhat impressed by American ideas. There is no place in Europe where there is such an intellectual battle going on concerning free government as in France. Then there is the republic of Switzerland, where in recent years they have organized a government like that of the United States, except that the President is elected by the Chambers. America has given the world proof that freemen are capable of self-government. The world looks on with amazement as her influence on other nations increases. At the close of the lecture the audience joined in singing "My country 'tis of The State Missionary Society, at its business meeting, elected the following officers: President, A. R. Benton; vice-president, Carey E.

Morgan; secretary, Howard Cale; treasurer, Amos Clifford; directors, to serve three years, A. M. Atkinson, B. C. Smith, C. H. Strann, A. C. Shortridge, H. Cale; to fill vacancy in the ne-year class. L. C. Warren. Elder B. M. Bleunt, of Irvington, taking for his subject "Let There be Light," addressed the meeting. He said if the world is to be condemned for mischief, the duty rests upon the church to sulighten the world. A terrible responsibility therefore devolves upon church members. Only about one-fourth of the earth's inhabitants are nominally Christians after 1,800 years of evangelical work. There is nothing like cordial co-operation on the part of professed Christians to christianize the world. Evangelical Christians are not united in their efforts to save the world from sin. The Lord never said much about plans. He said go and do the work.

This morning A. McLain, of Cincinnati, and Elder Loos will deliver addresses. The former on the lesson of the great London convention; the latter on foreign missions. This afternoon there will be three addresses—one by D. R. Lucas, of Des Moines, Ia., on the work of the general Christian missionary convention; another by T. J. Clark, of Vincennes, on our scattered brethren, and the third by F. M. Rains, of Topeka, Kan. A conference, led by R. Moffet, of Cleveland, O., will also be held. To-morrow is to be temperance day, with Dr. Ryland T. Brown, ex-State Geologist, as president of the day. Addresses are promised by Mrs. Persis L. Christian, of Chicago; Mrs. Zerelda G. Wallace, of Cataract, and D. R. Lucas. Sunday but one train will go to the Park, leaving here at 8:30 A. M. and there at 5:30 P. M. Prof. John Shackleford, of Lexington, Ky., will preach at 10:30 o'clock in the grand tabernacle, and at the same hour W. H. Kerr, of Waynetown in the pavilion. The afternoon sermon will be by D. R. Lucas, and the night sermon by John McNeill, of Rushville.

CULLINGS FROM THE COURTS.

A Berry-Picker Charged with Passing Counterfeit Gold Coin.

Deputy United States Marshal Stein brought here yesterday afternoon, from South Bend, Calvin Parless, who is charged with passing counterfeit coin. He, and others, it is said, have been making a rendezvous of the buckleberry swamps, twenty miles southeast of South Bend, and have, it is charged, at numerous times succeeded in passing off counterfeit coin. There is a camp of from six to seven hundred berry-pickers who settle in that region during the fruit season, and Sundays are made times of jullification, in which hundreds of professional crooks from Chicago participate. There has been a great deal of counterfeit coin in circulation in the vicinity of the camp, but its source could not be traced with any success. On July 15 Calvin Pariess offered a counterfeit $5 gold piece to a restaurant keeper named James Renish, and on a subsequent occasion, it is stated, attempted to pass such money. This furnished at least a partial clue, and it was decided that the evidence was sufficient to warrant his arrest, which was made Wednesday night. He was taken before commissioner W. G. George, at South Bend, and bound over for $2,000 to await action of the next grand jury.

Parless is from Knox, Stark county, and it is believed that he is the agent of a gang of Chicago counterfeiters.

Eccentric, but Not Insane. The friends of Mrs. Augusta Reichel, who was declared insane several days ago, and committed to the Logansport Asylum as incurable, will contest the action of the jury in the case. An appeal from the court of the justice of the peace has been taken and the case will come up for hearing in the Circuit Court in a few weeks. While Mrs. Reichel's husband and her friends acknowledge that her actions were at times very queer, they attribute them to eccentricity rather than an unbalanced mind. They say the woman was always of a benevolent disposition, and when she came in possession of a considerable sum of money from her parents' estate she believed it was her religious duty to distribute some of it among those who were needy.

Will Recover Her Lot. The suit brought against George Melkins by Matilda Jackman to compel him to convey back to her a lot she had given him after they were betrothed will be dismissed to-day. Melkins yesterday, upon the advice of his attorney, gave the young lady a deed for the lot, and also for the house he has erected upon it. She assumes the building association mortgage on the house.

Two of the mules fell into holes so small that the workmen found it difficult to get ropes around their bodies to pull them out. In this connection it may be said that next to a dog-fight an occurrence of the kind above noted will draw the biggest crowd in the shortest space of time. Nearly one thousand people gathered at the corner of Washington street and Virginia avenue in less than two minutes when the blind mule attached to the 4 o'clock Irvington car slid out of sight, and the same been there for some time.

A Day of Enjoyment at the Broad Ripple

The meeting of old settlers from Washington township, held yesterday at Broad Ripple, was largely attended. Fully 5,000 people had assembled upon the grounds by 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Emsley Wright opened the exercises in the morning with a welcome address, and prayer was offered by Rev. Allen Meyers, of Mapleton. Music was kindly furnished by the Zionsville band, after which the day was devoted to speech making and a general good time. Andrew Dawson, Rev. L. D. Butterfield, and others spoke. Disappointment was felt when the announcement was made that Capt. Eli F. Ritter and Judge Taylor, who had promised to be present, were unable to attend. The day was not marked by any accidents or disturbances, with the exception that Amanda E Mc-Clane, of Mapleton, was relieved of a gold watch

The old settlers of Marion, Hancock, Hamilton and Madison counties will hold their annual social and historical reunion at their old meeting place near Oakland to-morrow. Diseased Cattle Must Be Killed.

The State Board of Health held a meeting yesterday, at which a communication from Dr. S. E. Earp, secretary of the city Board of Health, was read, concerning the killing of cancer-jawed and otherwise diseased cattle. It is a well-known fact, the Doctor wrote, that some diseases peculiar to cattle are communicated to the human system directly, while the "cancerjawed" complaint simply renders the meat unfit to eat. The cattle affected with this disease are usually found in the stock-yards and slaughterhouses of the city. Dr. John N. Taylor, of Crawfordsville, offered a series of resolutions to the board to the effect that all county, town and city boards within the jurisdiction of the State Board be ordered to enforce the destruction of all cattle affected with cancered jaws, pleuropneumonia and glanders. Upon the failure of the owner of cattle to comply with this order. after due notification, the board, under whose action the order was issued, shall proceed against the owner in accordance with the statute of Indians. The resolution was adopted. The board further decided to visit the Northern prison on Aug. 16, in order to make an investigation of the complaints in regard to the alleged imperfect sewerage.

Rev. Dr. Marine. The following news from Rev. Dr. Marine, of Lincoln, Neb., under date of Aug. 7, will be received with great pleasure by his many friends. The note is from a member of the Doctor's family: "I know you will be interested in hearing of my father's recovery. He improves rapidly, says he has not felt as well for months. The doctors were mistaken in their diagnosis of the case. Instead of being a brain trouble, as they all feared, it was an acute attack of nervous prostration, and a great deal of malaria. He has been improving for a week. His mind is perfectly clear, never was more so, speech fluent. In the language of the Republicans, 'He's all right.' We are so very thankful he is spared to us physically and mentally strong as ever."
